

20107 – Vertigo and Dizziness: From Diagnosis to rehabilitation

João Paço

Professor João Paço is a professor of otorhinolaryngology at NOVA Medical School Faculdade de Ciências Médicas de Lisboa. He has various publications and chapter books in the area of deafness that have been highlighted in recent years. He participates in numerous national and international commissions in the area and guide residents and doctoral candidates. He collaborates with foreign and Portuguese universities in particular with the Universidade Católica Portuguesa, where he has coordinated hearing and deafness courses at the Institute of Health Sciences. He has been awarded with several prizes arising from his scientific and professional activity. In addition to his academic career, João Paço is the clinical director of the Hospital CUF Infante Santo, where he has been practicing his clinical activity for decades and where, with his team, he integrates projects such as "Health for all" through humanitarian missions that directs and coordinates supporting health in needy countries, such as São Tomé and Príncipe.

Leonel Luís

Professor Leonel Luís is a PhD professor at IMM – Translational Clinical Physiology Unit, Faculty of Medicine, University of Lisbon Translational Clinical Physiology. PhD in Health Sciences in Universidade Católica Portuguesa. He is the author of dozens of international scientific articles, book chapters and monographs in the area of Otoneurology and teacher of several international courses in the area of Otoneurology. He has been awarded with several prizes arising from his scientific and professional activity. In addition to his academic career, Luis Leonel is the Director of the Otorhinolaryngology Unit of the Hospital de Santa Maria, Centro Hospitalar Lisboa Norte and he is member of the board of Portuguese Association of Otoneurology and Clinical Trials working group of European Vertigo and Balance Network.

Pedro Araújo

Medical Doctor Pedro Araújo is Otorhinolaryngologist at Hospital da Luz and Head of Audiology and Otoneurology Department at the Otorhinolaryngology Center of Hospital da Luz.

He is Member of the Société Européenne de Otoneurologie (since 2003), International Fellow of the American Academy Otolaryngology - Head and Neck Surgery (since 2005) and Board Member of the Portuguese Otoneurology Association.

Haula Faruk Haider

Professor Haúla Faruk Haider is ENT medical doctor at Hospital Cuf Infante Santo Lisboa and has PHD degree in Medicine - Specialty of Otorhinolaryngology with the thesis: Tinnitus, Biomarkers and Quality of life in an older Portuguese Population.

She was Nominated MC Member of COST Action BM 1306 – TINNET was Co-Chair of clinical Working Group (WG) and Outcome WG member - MC Meeting

TINNET - Brussels. She is the author of dozens of scientific articles in the area of Otorhinolaryngology.

Pedro Marques

Professor Pedro Marques is a PhD Neuroscience Assistant Professor at the Unit of Otorhinolaryngology, Department of Surgery and Physiology, University of Porto Medical School.

He is the author of dozens of scientific articles, in the area of Otoneurology and in the area of Otorhinolaryngology. In addition to his academic career, Pedro Marques is the Coordinator of the Balance disorders Unit of Otorhinolaryngology at Centro Hospitalar Universitário de Hospital de S.João, member of the board of Portuguese Association of Otoneurology and Member of the Editorial Board of the Portuguese Journal of Otorhinolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery.

He is the author of dozens of scientific articles in the area of Otorhinolaryngology.

Sandra Duarte Costa Pereira

Graduated in Medicine by the Faculty of Medicine of Lisbon in 1994. She specialized in Otorhinolaryngology and Cervico-Facial Surgery at the Hospitals of the University of Coimbra in 2003.

Taught as invited assistant practical and theoretical classes in ENT from the Medicine at the Faculty of Medicine of Coimbra between 1998 and 2005.

Taught the Discipline of Otorhinolaryngology to the Higher Nursing Course at the School Nursing Superior Dr. Ângelo da Fonseca in Coimbra in the years 1999 and 2000.

Responsible for the theoretical teaching of anatomophysiology and audio-clinical practice at the Higher Audiology Course at the Escola Superior de Tecnologia da Saúde de Coimbra between 2001 and 2003 and for the theoretical teaching of Otorhinolaryngological Imaging at the Radiology Course at the Escola Superior de Tecnologia da Saúde de Coimbra in 2001 and 2002.

Since 2005 he has been dedicated to the Otoneurology area, initially in the Hospitals of the University of Coimbra and since 2007 in the Private Clinic.

Since 2004 he has been a regular member of the Board of the Portuguese Society of Otoneurology.

Participates assiduously in conferences and lectures in the ambit of Vertigo and Disturbance of Equilibrium at national and international level.

Maria Begona Cattoni

Maria Begona Cattoni is Medical Doctor, Hospital Assistant at the Neurosurgery Service, Hospital de Santa Maria - CHLN.

Responsible for the Deep Brain Stimulation surgical area for the treatment of Movement Diseases (Parkinson's disease, dystonia, essential tremor) and psycho-surgery, at Hospital de Santa Maria-CHLN and Hospital Cuf Infante Santo and Coordinator of the multidisciplinary medical team at the Gamma Knife Center, CUF Infante Santo Hospital.

Pedro Alberto Batista Brissos de Sousa Escada

Professor Pedro Escada is a PhD in Medicine, Otorhinolaryngology by Nova Medical School and Master in Audiology by Nova Medical School and University of Kansas (2002).

He is the Head of Department of Otorhinolaryngology, Hospital Egas Moniz, Centro Hospitalar de Lisboa Ocidental. Invited Associated Professor of Otorhinolaryngology at Nova Medical School (2017-), Vice-president of the Portuguese Otorhinolaryngologic Association , Coordinator of the Reference Center on Cochlear Implants, of the Hospital Egas Moniz, Centro Hospitalar de Lisboa Ocidental.

In Medical Education he is the Coordinator of the Otorhinolaryngology Undergraduate Training, Nova Medical School, Coordinator and/or teacher in more than 40 postgraduate / continuing medical education hands-on courses with cadavers or cadaveric specimens, Coordinator of the Training Microsurgery Unit of the Hospital Egas Moniz, Centro Hospitalar de Lisboa Ocidental and Director of the Residency Programs of the Hospital Egas Moniz, Centro Hospitalar de Lisboa Ocidental.

In the Scientific field he is Deputy Editor in Chief at Acta Médica Portuguesa, the scientific journal published by the Portuguese Medical Association and He is the author of dozens of scientific articles in the area of Otorhinolaryngology and About 150 Scientific Communications at medical congresses.